Statement from: Steve J. Romanelli
Core Pipe Products, Inc.
President and Chief Operating Officer

We recognize that the long term health of our employees, their families, our business and our global environment are linked together. It is our duty as a responsible corporation to be proactive in the operations of each of our facilities to protect the safety of all who we employ and all who we consider integral to our business. In our efforts, we must always insure that our equipment and our processes remain safe and our output of products is continually reducing the waste stream and energy resources used in these processes.

We will maintain safety and training programs with input from the participants designed to address any issues that are deemed dangerous and rectify immediately with corrective actions. Our employees are valued first and foremost as human beings who have a right to a proper work environment. We also will be stewards for the environment by a continuous improvement of processes that generate waste or hazardous materials that are harmful to the world in which we live. We must leave the earth better than we found it for the future generations who can only survive if we decide to take care of the resources necessary for sustaining life.

We are committed to the following:

- Provide a safe and secure work environment at all times.
- Use our resources wisely and efficiently and continuously look to reduce our consumption of energy and natural resources while also reducing our waste stream.
- Comply with or exceed all regulations that are required by our government agencies such as OSHA, EPA, and local and state laws.
- Properly train and educate our employees so that they will be informed about any potentially hazardous conditions when operating equipment.
- Meet and exceed all customer quality and performance requirements to insure their success as well as our own.
- Recognize the role we play in protecting our planet and its resources and always strive to make this world a better place.

It is paramount to us as the keepers of this world to do our best every day to be responsible for the opportunities we have received in life and be proud that we have the honor and ability to preserve the future for our families, their friends, and all those who are able to take some comfort in a clean, healthy, and prosperous planet.
